DEFENDANT/RESPONDENT: Google, Inc., Orkut.com, LLC, Orkut Buyukkokten	104 CV 020368

17. Discovery

a. The party or parties have completed all discovery.
 b. The following discovery will be completed by the date specified (describe all anticipated discovery):

Party	Description	Date
Affinity Engines Inc.	Depositions	June, 2005
Affinity Engines Inc.	Interrogatories	May, 2005
Affinity Engines Inc.	Requests for Admission	May, 2005
Affinity Engines Inc.	Expert Discovery	June/July, 2005

c. The following discovery issues are anticipated (specify): A discovery referee will likely be necessary due to defendants scorched earth litigation tactics, described briefly in response to 6b. AEI believes that defendants will do anything in their power to prevent the case from moving forward. [Continued on Attachment A]

18. Economic Litigation

a. This is a limited civil case (i.e., the amount demanded is $25,000 or less) and the economic litigation procedures in Code of Civil Procedure sections 90 through 98 will apply to this case.
 b. This is a limited civil case and a motion to withdraw the case from the economic litigation procedures or for additional discovery will be filed (if checked, explain specifically why economic litigation procedures relating to discovery or trial should not apply to this case):

19. Other Issues

The party or parties request that the following additional matters be considered or determined at the case management conference (specify): AEI requests that the Court facilitate the process of appointing a discovery referee if the parties have not stipulated to one. In addition, AEI requests that the Court require Google to immediately provide dates from May until June 17, 2005 when AEI's requested fact witnesses will be available to depose.

20. Meet and confer

a. The party or parties have met and conferred with all parties on all subjects required by rule 212 of the California Rules of Court (if not, explain): The parties have not met and conferred regarding a suggested discovery referee despite AEI's attempts on several occasions to do so. In addition, Google has refused to meet and confer regarding the availability of its witnesses for depositions.
 b. After meeting and conferring as required by rule 212 of the California Rules of Court, the parties agree on the following (specify):

21. Case management orders

Previous case management orders in this case are (check one): none attached as Attachment 21.

22. Total number of pages attached (if any): 1

I am completely familiar with this case and will be fully prepared to discuss the status of discovery and ADR, as well as other issues raised by this statement, and will possess the authority to enter into stipulations on these issues at the time of the case management conference, including the written authority of the party where required.

Case No. 104 CV 020368

Attachment A to Case Management Statement

6b. At first, Google refused to produce the source code at issue in the case. Google only produced the source code after AEI obtained a court order compelling production. In response to the same Court order, Google dumped 120,000 pages of documents on AEI in no discernible order, refusing to produce documents in electronic searchable form (even though they were produced to Google's counsel in electronic form). More recently, Google has refused to offer any dates of availability for its witnesses to be deposed.

Despite Google's attempts to delay, most of the document discovery in the case has been completed. Aside from Corcle.com – the Orkut.com source code prototype defendants claim has been destroyed – both parties have access to code. Google failed to produce the early prototype Corcle. In addition, Google has produced no early versions of Orkut.com. Google has only produced the code available two days after launching the website. No subsequent code has been produced. AEI has produced all relevant versions of its inCircle source code.

In addition, Google has deposed AEI's corporate designee on two occasions and is only seeking four other depositions (although it has not formally noticed any depositions yet). Over 140,000 pages of documents have been produced by the parties in the case and AEI has responded to nearly sixty special interrogatories, 42 from Google and 14 from co-defendant Orkut Buyukkokten. AEI anticipates that, so long as Google promptly produces the 5 deposition witnesses AEI seeks, and Mr. Buyukkokten appears for deposition, the parties will be ready to begin trial in late July.

14b. Google seeks a declaratory judgment as to the validity of AEI's copyright in the inCircle code. Since Google cannot have a valid copyright infringement claim if it does not own the inCircle code, and since ownership of the inCircle source code and other source code is already being litigated in this case, the federal case should be stayed or dismissed pending resolution of this action. Accordingly, AEI filed a motion to dismiss and/or stay Google's Federal Complaint which will be heard by the federal court on May 11, 2005.

17c. Absent the appointment of a discovery referee and the setting of a trial date, defendants will not in good faith attempt to complete fact discovery, thereby precluding AEI from proceeding to trial.
